The module aims to make students familiar with ancient Greek epic poetry and more particularly with the Homeric epics, by close study of selected parts of the surviving Greek text of Homer's Iliad.

More particularly, with the completion of this course students should be able to:

- Have a broad knowledge of the formation of the genre of epic poetry in ancient Greece, of its subgenres, their characteristics and the most important poets or poetic traditions;
- Locate Homer's epics -and more particularly the Iliad- in their historical context as well as describe the relation between myth and history in the epics (mainly the Iliad)
- Know and describe some basic terms, concepts and theories as regards the composition of the epics
- Be familiar with the entire content of the Iliad (in translation)
- Demonstrate a substantial knowledge of the original language (grammar, syntax and vocabulary), rhythm, style and content of selected parts of the Iliad
- Translate into Modern Greek selected parts of the Iliad
- Apply basic terms of epic form, structure and composition on the analysis of the Iliad
- Discuss some basic interpretative issues raised in the selected parts of the Iliad under study
- Be familiar with some forms of modern reception of the Iliad
