3. COURSE DESCRIPTION

The course is a key step to familiarize the undergraduate student with a unique theatrical genre that has not yet been the subject of extensive scientific research, the [light] musical theater.

It is targeting a first but significant contact between students and key problems and challenges of theatre studies research in Greece. Linking theoretical knowledge with practical research objectives and understanding the overall picture of Theatre Research projects in Greece it is intended to give the student the trigger to deal with a field of the humanities which is not yet saturated, and where much is yet to be written and done.

The aim of the course is to make the student realize the interaction of the Modern Greek theater with the relevant European and American, through the Modern Greek [light] musical theater. Similarly, the study of the interaction between theater, literature and the other Fine arts will be the main element of the students' work during lectures, also in conjunction with the economic, social, political and cultural developments in the country and the globe.
